ARCH 443: Architectural Design Analysis Inspection Trip (1 Credit) – Schedule #432064

"Faculty guided trip to metropolitan areas to investigate noteworthy architecture and building construction and to visit professional offices. Prerequisite: fourth-year Architectural Engineering majors first priority, others by faculty approval." (Undergraduate Degree Programs Bulletin)

Chicago, IL has served as the venue for this exploration for over two decades and continues to offer the cutting edge of contemporary architectural expression and construction opportunities while providing a broad array of professional practices which enthusiastically host our students during this experience. The group meets several times during the semester to develop a background understanding of the history and architectural traditions of the city. Class lectures and materials will help each student take personal advantage of this exposure.

There is a fee associated with this course. This fee, which will be charged to your student account, will cover transportation to, from, and within Chicago; standard hotel accommodation; and, entry fees to all scheduled events. Meals and personal expenses are not covered by this fee. A non-refundable advance/deposit of $350 will be charged to your account as of 2-SEP-2010 if you are still registered for the course by that date. The balance will be charged to your account after the trip. The total fee amount (advance + balance) will depend on actual costs incurred and number of participants.
